Instructions for Submitting Your Appeal Statement

As part of your appeal for academic reconsideration, you must submit a written statement explaining the totality of circumstances that led to your academic suspension. Your statement helps the Academic Appeals Committee understand what contributed to your academic difficulties and what has changed to support future success. Please follow the guidelines below when preparing your submission:

1. Explain what led to your academic difficulties

Provide a clear and honest explanation of the challenges or circumstances that impacted your academic performance. These may include:

- Personal or family difficulties
- Mental or physical health concerns
- Financial or work-related challenges
- Time management issues or academic struggles
- Any other factors that contributed to your academic standing

Be as specific as you are comfortable being—your explanation helps the committee fully understand your situation.

2. Describe how these challenges affected your academics

Help the committee connect your circumstances to the outcomes by explaining:

- How these issues impacted your attendance, assignments, study habits, or ability to focus
- Any specific courses or academic situations that were affected

3. Explain what has changed

The committee needs to understand what is different now. Your statement should include:

- Steps you have already taken to address the challenges you described
- Resources you have used or plan to use (counseling, tutoring, time-management tools, etc.)
- Any changes in your personal, health, or financial situation

4. Outline your plan for future success

Provide a realistic and concrete plan for how you will succeed if readmitted. This may include:

- Academic support services you plan to use
- Changes to your schedule, work hours, or study habits
- Strategies for staying organized and maintaining progress
- Any commitments you are making to prioritize your academics

5. Keep your statement clear, honest, and reflective

Your goal is to demonstrate:

- Awareness of what led to your suspension
- Insight into how to prevent similar issues
- Readiness to return as a successful student

6. Submit all required documents by the deadline

Your completed statement, along with any supporting documentation, must be submitted by the appeals deadline. Appeals received after this deadline cannot be reviewed.
